Who should attend?

Employment support practitioners and managers from across the South East of England

Employment support for people with health conditions or those who experience social disadvantage is a developing area of practice. Professionals and volunteers engaged in this activity are positioned in a variety of settings across the public, voluntary and private sectors.

Despite a common role and job purpose for employment support workers, there is no standard training, or career progression. How can we promote quality service delivery and good practice?

The Holiday Inn, Shepperton

on the banks of the Thames
