

What Works?

Huw Davies / Kathy Melling

The context

New DWP provision – Work Choice, Work Programme

Sayce Review of Access to Work, Remploy, RTCs

Personal budgets vs block funding

Personalisation pilots – Right to Control, Jobs First

Transition from education – SEN&D Green Paper, Project Search

Dept of Health disability strategies

Local authority disinvestment - service availability & access

The economy – jobs and employer engagement

Now gaining an evidence base

Provision is patchy and fragile

What role should DWP, Health and Social Care and Education have in commissioning provision?

Is Work Choice delivering the goods?

What of the Sayce recommendation to move to personal budgets?

What about the future of Right to Control?

How can we smarten local commissioning, family and employer involvement?

Quality, outcomes and sustainability – how is the model priced?

Is the cost/benefit case for investment clear enough?

What should it cost and who should pay?

Should personal budgets apply to employment support?

What mechanisms are needed to manage this?

What is being paid for – outcome or process?

How can we best share best practice

Inspection – needed or not?

Workforce qualifications – ideas?

Standards – how do we assure jobseekers, commissioners, employers?

Transition from education?

Wage subsidies?

Influencing employer behaviour

What should follow Work Choice?

Integration into the Work Programme

Personal budgets

LA grant funding

Any other ideas?

Where should the policy responsibility lie?
