The British Association for Supported Employment

The annual conference of the British Association for Supported Employment takes place at the Leeds Hilton Hotel on 9-10 November 2022 and will be attended by around 200 practitioners from across the UK employment and education sectors.

BASE was formed to promote supported employment as the most effective and direct route to open paid employment for people with disabilities and/or other economic disadvantage. The core customers of supported employment services are people with learning disabilities, people with long term mental health needs, autism conditions and sensory impairments though a number of services are also supporting other disadvantaged groups.

With over 220 member organisations across Britain, BASE is seen as the foremost organisation representing specialist employment support. BASE represents and supports the supported employment sector, informing its members' activities through regional forums, newsletters, national conferences and its website. The annual conference is an opportunity for members to network and discuss best practice. It is also a chance to listen to respected practitioners, academics, strategists and political figures.

The association is now recognised as a key stakeholder within the disability employment sector and seeks to work closely with Government departments on the development of national strategies to improve the employment rates of people who would otherwise face exclusion from the labour market.

Our 2022 conference will again focus on the practical aspects of delivering high quality supported employment services. The event offers a number of sponsorship opportunities.

David Grainger Award

The David Grainger Award is presented annually by BASE in memory of David Grainger. David was the secretary of NASE and general manager of Roseville Enterprises who died prematurely in 2004.

David felt passionately that supported employment should offer a wide range of choices to help individuals improve their quality of life. Therefore, the Award is presented to a person with a disability who has made outstanding progress in their employment and is a significant 'team player' who always supports his or her colleagues. This year, the award is open to national nominations.
