

Advise employers about the benefits, processes and practices to recruit and retain a diverse workforce

Overview

What is this Standard about?

This standard is about engaging with employers to enable them to understand the benefits of developing processes and practices to recruit and retain a diverse workforce. It includes providing support to the employer to review their employment practices, to facilitate workforce diversity, while at the same time meeting their business needs. In the context of this standard the term "job seeker" applies to an individual seeking some form of paid employment.

Who is this Standard for?

This standard is for all supported employment practitioners

Values

For a supported employment practitioner to practice competently he or she must apply skills and knowledge that is informed by a set of values. Supported employment practitioners are expected to be aware of and to apply a value based and ethical approach in their practice. It is also recognised that the values as well as the NOS may need to be placed within the local, national, social and political context in which supported employment activities are undertaken.

Supported employment practitioners embrace the philosophy that:

1. People with disabilities and/or disadvantages can make a positive contribution in the workplace.
2. People with disabilities / disadvantage should have access to a real job where
 - wages are paid at the going rate for the job,
 - the employee enjoys the same terms and conditions as all other employees;
 - the job helps the person to meet their life goals and aspirations;
 - the role is valued by managers and colleagues;
 - the job has similar hours and times at work as other employees, with safe working conditions.
3. Practitioners uphold the "zero rejection" philosophy of supported employment so that, with the right job and the right support, everyone who wants to work, can work.
4. Supported employment does not adhere to a work readiness model and a 'place, train and maintain' approach is implemented.
5. Job search should happen at the earliest opportunity.
6. People are encouraged to exercise choice and control in achieving their career aspirations. Support is individualised and all options assume successful employability.
7. There is genuine partnership between the person, their family carers, employers, community supports and the provider of supported employment.
8. People are supported to be full and active members of their workforces and wider communities, both socially and economically.
9. Support services recognise the importance of the employer as a customer of supported employment in their own right with requirements that need to be satisfied.

10. Supported employment draws on Social Role Valorisation (SRV) in recognising that employment is a valued social role and becoming employed can help reverse societal devaluation, with wider positive consequences for the person.

11. Supported employment draws on the social model of disability recognising that disability is the product of the physical, organisational and attitudinal barriers present within society. The removal of discrimination requires a change of approach and thinking in the way in which society is organised, in this case removing barriers to employment.

12. Supported employment should encourage the career development of individuals by promoting training opportunities and seeking options for increased responsibility.

Glossary

Carve Jobs: Jobs can be carved by selecting and combining duties from one or more existing jobs into a new position.

Customise: Jobs can be customised based on an individualised match between the strengths and interests of a job seeker and the identified business needs of an employer.

Diversity: Aims to recognise, respect and value people's differences to contribute and realise their full potential by promoting an inclusive culture for everyone.

Reasonable Adjustment: Equality Law recognises that bringing about equality for disabled people may mean changing the way in which employment is structured, the removal of physical barriers and/or providing extra support for a disabled worker or job applicant, this is the duty to make reasonable adjustments.

Supported Employment: Supported employment is the term for high quality, personalised support for people with disabilities and/or disadvantages which enables them to seek, access and retain employment in the open labour market. It is a "place, train and maintain" approach that does not rely on long periods of pre-vocational training or a basic level of qualification or experience.
